Faculty-led Study Abroad Programs

The following represents a summary of the processes involved in proposing or renewing a Faculty-led Study Abroad program. It should also be used for Study Away proposals. Other than in exceptional circumstances, the Radford University Center for Global Education and Engagement (CGEE) will contract program providers to manage flights, accommodation, travel, insurance, and most other logistics leaving the faculty member to concentrate on the academic elements of the program. If more details are needed, please contact the Center for Global Education and Engagement.

A. Proposal and Program Renewal Guidelines

Study Abroad programs must have learning outcomes directly related to students’ programmatic educational goals and to learning outcomes of departmental or interdisciplinary majors or minors. Students not pursuing these majors may choose a Study Abroad program for elective credit.

In addition to designing and managing the academic content of the program, the Program Director has many other responsibilities, including, but not limited to:

- Submitting a program proposal that articulates the programmatic goals, the academic and intercultural student learning outcomes, and any health and safety considerations.
- Promoting the program and recruiting students.
- Handling some on-site finances and securing proper expense documentation.
- Delivering or coordinating the on-site academic content of the program.
- Providing support, guidance, and behavioral management to students.
- Managing crisis and emergency situations.
- Providing emergency contact information and program itinerary to the CGEE.
- Collaborating with the CGEE staff to facilitate student course registration and additional administrative functions.
- Having their students participate in Program Director-conducted pre-departure orientation (where students must be informed of final program costs and complete the necessary forms) and post program assessment.
- Sharing the Program Director-conducted post program assessment results with the CGEE within thirty days of the program’s conclusion.
- Having their students participate in the mandatory CGEE-conducted pre-departure orientation and post program assessment.

Faculty leaders may screen applicants at their discretion, and accept or decline admission to the program based on their screening criteria.

Please note that family members of program directors or other accompanying faculty and any other companions are not permitted to travel on Radford University Study Abroad programs.
B. Submission procedure
- The proposal form (a fillable pdf) is available from the CGEE and is also available from the CGEE website. It must be submitted to the CGEE by the appropriate deadlines stated on the CGEE website.
- Before the proposal is submitted to the CGEE, the Chair/Director and Dean of the appropriate school must endorse it. The Assistant Provost of CGEE will then review it and send it to the Associate Provost for Academic Programs, who will then either endorse or further review the proposal. If endorsed, the proposal will be submitted to the Provost for approval and then to the President.

C. Participation of a host institution
If the proposed study abroad program includes the participation of a host institution of higher education, use the proposal form to provide a description of the host institution’s obligations and capacity to provide students with educational experiences that meet the learning goals of the proposed study abroad program.

D. Enrollment requirement for Study Abroad/Away programs that include Radford University courses
Generally, the minimum number of students that must be enrolled for the total minimum credit-hour offering of a study abroad program is ten. If enrolled students fail to pay Radford University tuition or the appropriate study abroad fee by the payment deadline and/or if students withdraw after paying tuition or the appropriate study abroad fee to the extent that the program no longer meets the minimum enrollment requirement, the University reserves the right to cancel the program and to refund tuition or the appropriate study abroad fee to those students still enrolled.

E. Role of the Center for Global Education and Engagement
- The CGEE will assist Program Directors in developing program proposals and in providing assistance for the development of necessary and appropriate pre-departure programs for students.
- The CGEE will work with Program Directors, Radford University, and program providers to determine the price of the program. (Program Directors should not inform students or parents of definitive program costs without first consulting the CGEE.)
- The CGEE will inform Program Directors of the final program approval.
- The CGEE will advise students of scholarships and refer students to the Financial Aid Office for information about eligibility for financial aid.
- The CGEE will collect and process all study abroad applications, perform disciplinary clearance through the Office of Student Standards and Conduct for each applicant, and distribute results to each Program Director.
- The CGEE will provide students with information about passport, visa, and insurance requirements.
• The CGEE will work with Program Directors and maintain emergency notification records on all students enrolled in study abroad programs and serve as the Radford University point of contact for program leaders and members of students’ families during the study abroad experience.
• The CGEE will assist faculty members with post-experience programs for students, to include helping faculty members gather assessment information that can be used for program improvement.
• The CGEE will take care of student registration with the Registrar's Office.
• The CGEE will select the program providers (in consultation with Program Directors).
• The CGEE will manage the student participation agreement which includes liability waivers.
